WebSST continues to evolve . . . Triangle is committed to improvements to this search tool. Be sure to check out the latest improvements.

- Searching for King Pins or Tie Rods using the Steering Components special search option now allows you to search by axle code. If you already have the code, you can key it in and get immediate match information. Both products will be displayed in the result screens that follow. This compliments the dimensional search for these products.
- The Exploded Views have been revised to show more information on each page. Look for more changes to be made in this area in the future.
- Have multiple items to search for? No longer necessary to return to “Home” for the next item on your list. You will now see that the Cross Reference Search is displayed on each result screen making it easier to do multiple items.
- Torque values have been added to all U-Bolts and U-Bolt kits.
- Use steel width and thickness to limit your search for the right Repair Plate.
- The cross reference and item information found in the Air Spring search category is constantly being updated as this Conti product offering thru Triangle is expanded.

Take another look at those threaded rods.

Many distributors asked for an easy way to find the center on threaded rods used to make U-Bolts. The product team at Triangle worked with the vendor and this product now includes an etched visual guide on all new items being received. This will be a rolling change as new inventory is being received.
